

The Australian Journal of INDIGENOUS EDUCATION

This article was originally published in printed form. The journal began in 1973 and was titled The Aboriginal Child at School. In 1996 the journal was transformed to an internationally peer-reviewed publication and renamed The Australian Journal of Indigenous Education.

In 2022 The Australian Journal of Indigenous Education transitioned to fully Open Access and this article is available for use under the license conditions below.

This work is licensed under the Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License. To view a copy of this license, visit <http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/> or send a letter to Creative Commons, PO Box 1866, Mountain View, CA 94042, USA.

Editorial

From the editorial office we wish you and your Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal students well for the forthcoming school year.

We are now in our 8th year of issue, and reports from a great many schools indicate that the journal is useful and that teachers find particularly helpful those articles that have been written by other teachers. This was, in fact, the reason why the journal was launched - to offer a medium whereby good practices could spread from teacher to teacher and from school to school.

We hope that all of you will regard this editorial as a personal invitation to write in about your successful programs with groups of Aboriginal students. The form of communication does not matter - we can accept and handle typescript, handwriting or recorded cassette.

We look forward to hearing from you.

Best wishes.

B. H. Latta

All correspondence should be addressed to:

*The Editor,
The Aboriginal Child at School,
Schonell Educational Research Centre,
University of Queensland, St Lucia, 4067.*